Destroying Property Is on the Way To Destroying Personal Freedoms

While it's true these businesses, many of them part of larger corporations, should be able to repair and start anew, destruction of property is the smaller tip of a larger iceberg. We might condone it because of the "big corporations" behind them, but we fail to see the employees who depend on their salaries or the individuals who depend on their services.

Once we erase the idea of property, we erase the concept of anything belonging solely to one person. and then the rights and personal freedoms of each individual become
